A lively comedy of manners set in the Regency era, The Painted Fan tells the story of a young woman finding true love and, on the way, finding herself. Biographie de l'auteur Elizabeth Aston is a full-time writer who aims to entertain and enchant. She lives in Oxford, England, where she went to university. She was born in Chile, lived in India and Italy, and loves to travel when she's not busy with her next story. Two grown-up children act as her keenest critics, a visiting cat provides feline company, and the Gothic-style apartment block where she lives is full of fascinating neighbors for when she feels like people watching.
